BRITAIN NOTIFIES GERMANY SHE IS SUPPORTING FRENCH

Favors French Proposal For An "Eastern Locarno,"
Says Announcement

IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

Italy Joins Great Britain, According to Sir John
Simons

BERLIN, Germany, July 13—The British government, only a few hours before Chancellor Adolph Hitler was to address the Reichstag with what is expected to be an emphatic protest against the encirclement of Germany, today served formal notice upon the Reich that England is supporting the French proposal for an "Eastern Locarno."

Sir Eric Phipps, British Ambassador, called at the Foreign Office and informed Baron Konstantin Von Neurath, Foreign Minister, that Anglo-French collaboration in developing regional mutual assistance pacts to preserve peace on the European continent had been assured as a result of a recent visit to London of Louis Barthou, French Foreign Minister. International News Service first carried the news in dispatches from London and Paris, that such an agreement had been reached.

LONDON, England, July 13—British and Italian approval of the French plan for an "eastern Locarno" was announced in the House of Commons this afternoon by Sir John Simons, British Foreign Secretary. Sir John, who clashed openly with Louis Barthou, French Foreign Minister at Geneva on the armament question, told the French Foreign Minister, who has just concluded a visit of far reaching importance to London and the French government, of the decision.

BERLIN, Germany, July 13—Chancellor Adolph Hitler defies fate today—Friday the 13th—as he speaks from that stage they still call "The Reichstag" to his party, his people and the world.

Friday the 13th is an unlucky day in the German popular mind, as it is in the minds of many other people.

Hitler is in the midst of the worst misfortune ever encountered since he came into power, but Hitler has chosen today to throw the battalion of his power against enemies, at home, abroad and in the heavens. For against Hitler today are three great armies. At home the hostile forces are led by no man in name but leaders of this

Son Shot By Maggio Was Hers, Says Woman

CAMDEN, July 13—A mother willing "to sacrifice good name and everything else to see that justice is done," appeared voluntarily in the office of Camden County Prosecutor Orlando yesterday and threw new light on the slaying of Michael Maggio's wife and son in a summer cottage near Clementon early the morning of June 29.

The woman identified herself as Mrs. Catherine Bonacart, of Baltimore, now married and the mother of a family of three, but 21 years ago the mother of an illegitimate son by Maggio. It was this son, called Joseph by his father and "Pete" by the mother, whom the South Philadelphia Importer found with Mrs. Maggio at Pillings Lake, Mrs. Bonacart said.

After having been closeted with the woman nearly all morning, Assistant Prosecutor Patrick Harding announced that developments change materially the State's case against Maggio, who gave himself up a week after the crime.

Mrs. Bonacart, it was stated, told of meeting Maggio 22 years ago in Italy. She came to this country to live in Baltimore soon after this meeting, she told Harding, and became friendly with Maggio there. Her family disliked him, she said, and when it became known that she was to be a mother, Maggio left town.

Not until two years ago did the father see his son, according to Mrs. Bonacart. Then Maggio learned the son had been raised by friends of the mother, and offered him a job in Philadelphia as a clerk in his Italian grocery. The son lived with Maggio as "a child by a former marriage," it was related.

Two days ago Mrs. Bonacart, reading an Italian newspaper, learned of the double murder. Immediately she got in touch with a friend in Philadelphia, whose name was not revealed. This friend arranged for her to come up from Baltimore and call on the prosecutor.

Maggio, held in Camden County Prison, declared through his attorney, Carl Kisselman, he had no recollection of killing his wife and son. He said he shot the two in a blind fury when he found them together and learned that his wife was unfaithful.

At first it was indicated Maggio would try to win his freedom on "the unwritten law." Later his counsel let it be known there was "a sound legal defense."

Bliss, Even in Jail

Dorothy Britton, who won the title of "Miss Universe of 1927," and her husband, Clifford Parli-man, are pictured embracing in the Orange Park jail at Newburgh, N. Y., where Parli-man was incarcerated for allegedly failing to pay $420 in back alimony to his first wife, the former Gladys Walton. The marriage was not revealed until Parli-man had been taken to jail.

JOSEPH WISSOW TO BE PRESENTED AT CROYDON

Treat in Store for Music
Lovers; Performer Is A
Leading Concert Pianist

AT MANOR TONIGHT

Josef Wissow, one of Philadelphia's leading concert pianists, will be presented to the residents of Lower Bucks County and Philadelphia at 8.30 tonight, at the Manor Theatre, Croydon. This opportunity of hearing one of the country's outstanding musicians, who has been associated with the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Pennsylvania Symphony Orchestra, and the Philharmonic Society, is a part of the 1934 program of the Sarobia Players.

During the past five concert seasons, it has been estimated that Mr. Wissow has appeared before more than 50,000 persons, and at this time is particularly noted for his sensational work at the Robin Hood Dell last summer. In this latter instance, Mr. Wissow achieved for himself a tremendous following for his unique and particularized interpretation of modernistic musical conceptions.

In presenting Josef Wissow in this concert, John S. Woodrow, managing director of the Sarobia Players, has gone to great lengths, in accordance with his policy of presenting a diversified group of programs of the allied arts of the theatre. The policy is not only to present the finest dramatic productions in this area, but also to incorporate into their seasonal program a group of the country's leading artists in the fields of dramatics, music, dancing, and various theatrical work.

Mr. Wissow will include on his program two numbers which those who have heard him before will enjoy hearing again: the Rhapsody by Brahms and Two Waltzes and a Ballade by Chopin. To give the program complete balance, and to cover the circuit of piano music, Mr. Wissow will give, as the second part of his program, six modern numbers by contemporary composers. He will play also "Gavotte" by Gluck-Brahms, "Fantasia" by Mendelssohn, "Turkish March" by Beethoven, and the "Rigolette Fantasia" by Liszt.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Keers Honor Daughter Lillian

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Keers were hosts Wednesday evening to friends of their daughter, Lillian, in honor of her 18th birthday.

The pastime included games, singing and dancing. Prizes for games were earned by Evelyn Shores and Jane Lynch.

Refreshments were served at the dining room table which was decorated with cut flowers, and a birthday cake with candles. Favors were pink and green baskets filled with candies. Lillian received many gifts.

The guests: Alice Jones, Ruth Campbell, Jane Morgan, Evelyn Shores, Leora Wood, Betty and Jane Lynch, Alberta Wicks, Esther Paulette, Evelyn Vasey, Vivian Fenton, Doris and Marjorie Stewart, Mary Crawford, Mrs. Wilmer Dyer, Mrs. Anna Jones, Misses Florence McBlaine, Anna Keers, Dorothy Keers.

FARM SCHOOL HERD PROVES EXCEPTIONAL ONE

Demonstrates Value of Selecting The Right Kind of Foundation Animals

HAVE MANY RECORDS

The production average of 10518 pounds of 4.08% milk, 429.40 pounds of butterfat of the eleven Ayrshires owned by the National Farm School, Farm School, furnishes a most convincing demonstration of the value of selecting the right kind of foundation animals for a breeding herd of heavy producing cows. The foundation animals for this herd were selected because of the known heavy producing ability of the members of their respective families. The mothers and grandmothers of these foundation animals for several generations have records made under the rules of the Ayrshire Herd Test that served as a guarantee of inheritance of these animals for profitable yields.

The original purchases for the National Farm School herd consisted of five heifer calves, made by Dean C. L. Gooding at the 1929 Pennsylvania Ayrshire Breeders' Association sale, from consignments of Sycamore, Pennsylvania Masonic Homes and Old Forge, herds that were following a year after year program of Herd Testing.

These five heifers were enrolled in the Ayrshire Herd Test in 1931 as first calf heifers, and secured the outstanding average of 10494 pounds of 4.1% milk, 430 pounds of butterfat, or 13784 pounds of milk, 565 pounds of butterfat on a mature basis, the highest mature equivalent average recorded in the Herd Test.

These heifers, now in four and five year old form, together with six other heifers that were added to the herd were again started on Herd Test in 1933 and completed the year with an average of 10518 pounds of 4.08% milk, which on a mature basis is equal to a production average of 11920 pounds of milk, 487 pounds of butterfat.

No one animal stood out as the exceptionally heavy producer, all completing records indicating a very uniformly high producing capacity. Only two animals gave less than 10,000 pounds of milk, or 400 pounds of butterfat. While five records were completed with over 11,000 pounds.

Grand Master's Geraldine, that made 11637 pounds of milk, 463 pounds of butterfat as a two year old, this year as a five year old produced 11770 pounds of milk, 431 pounds of butterfat. She is a daughter of Sir Robert's Daisy that has a life time record of 125,736 pounds of milk, 4309 pounds of butterfat in 11 years.

Sycamore Redbird, another of the original five heifers comprising the

ASKS BRIDGE REMOVAL

Harrisburg, July 13—Charging that vehicular and pedestrian traffic is endangered, Elwood Kohl, of Morrisville, Bucks County, asked the Public Service Commission today to abolish the bridge carrying Bridge Street (State Highway No. 281) in Morrisville over the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Kohl's complaint was filed against the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company; the Pennsylvania Railroad Company; the State Department of Highways, Bucks County and the Borough of Morrisville.

BLOD KILLER EXECUTED

James Bradley Fined For Having Moonshine

James Bradley, 713 Spruce street, whose place was raided by State Liquor Control Board agents and Bristol police Wednesday night, was given a hearing yesterday and fined.

Bradley was found in possession of two gallons of alleged moonshine liquid which was confiscated, according to the agents.

Bradley appeared before Justice of Peace, James Guy, for a hearing in Municipal Police Court. He was fined $25 and costs.

Bristol A. A. Nine Against Cornwells Team

GAME ENDS 3 TO 1

CORNWELLS, July 13—"Mike" De Risi increased the lead of the Bristol A. A. team in the Lower Bucks County League by pitching his club to a 3-1 victory over the Cornwells A. A. team here last night.

DeRisi was superb in his mound performance. He allotted the Cornwells team but three hits and for six innings kept the homesters from the platter. A home run from the bat of "Eddie" Sullivan at the beginning of the seventh gave the locals their only run and prevented DeRisi from checking in with a shut-out win.

Sullivan's four-bagger wasn't the only circuit crash of the fray, for to begin the third inning, "Sid" Purcell caught hold of a Leighton pitch and

COACH CO. FIGHTS NEW BUS FRANCHISE

Bristol Men Oppose Application for Franchise Through Morrisville

HEAR MANY WITNESSES

PHILADELPHIA, July 13—(INS)—The application of Israel Richmond, Trenton, N. J., for the right to operate a bus line within the borough of Morrisville, Pa., today hung in the balance with a final hearing on the application scheduled for 10 a. m., Tuesday, July 17, before Public Service Commissioner Thomas Egan here.

Commissioner Egan decided to hold the case over to allow Richmond, the applicant, and the contestants, the joint Delaware River Coach Company and the New Jersey & Pennsylvania Traction Company, of Bristol, Pa., to bring in several more witnesses.

During the review of the application yesterday, before Commissioner Egan, a parade of witnesses, representing both applicant and contestants, walked to the witness chair. Among them were Burgess Thomas B. Stockham, of Morrisville, Elwood Kohl, member of Morrisville's Council and citizens of the borough.

Hugh B. Eastburn, Bristol, Pa., represented the Delaware River Coach Company and the New Jersey & Pennsylvania Traction Company, while Richmond's counsel was State Senator Clarence Buckman, Langhorne, Pa.

Eastburn engaged in a sharp exchange of words with Stockham as the latter took the witness stand. Stockham testified he "thought Richmond would co-operate with the citizens of Morrisville, while the Coach Company apparently would not."

"Do you own any property on the streets covered by the applicant's tentative bus route?" asked Eastburn. "No, not a bit," snapped back Stockham.

Minot J. Hill, vice-president of both units of the joint bus and trolley companies, took the stand later and said "We would be forced to go out of business if Richmond's application is granted." He asserted that there was no room for two competitive bus lines.

Following the testimony of Hill, testimony was given by citizens of Morrisville, some maintaining that the service was excellent while others described the condition of the tracks and general equipment as "deplorable."

FINDS HUSBAND DEAD SHORTLY AFTER HE REFUSES RIDE HOME

Philip Mazzillo, 47, Trenton Avenue, Killed In An Unknown Manner

WIFE IS QUESTIONED

Authorities Later Decide The Affair Was An Accident

A mother and three children were released by the authorities today after being closely questioned concerning the death of the husband and father.

Philip Mazzillo, 47, 1902 Trenton avenue, was found dead shortly before last midnight along Otter street, near the point of intersection with Bristol Pike (Route 13). Death was due to a broken neck, according to an autopsy performed by Dr. John J. Sweeney, Bucks County coroner. The autopsy was performed at the Harriman Hospital.

The body of Mazzillo was found just south of the Otter Creek bridge along Otter street at about 11.30 by John Rymer, Bristol Township. Johnny Wilson, Croydon, stepped out of a bus and also saw the body. A few minutes later the wife of the dead man accompanied by two children drove up to the spot, and Daniel, 12, son of the dead man, jumped out of the car, ran across the street and called back to his mother that it was his father.

Mazzillo was for a number of years employed by Rohm & Haas and it was the custom for his wife to drive him to and from the place of his employment. Yesterday he went to work at three o'clock in the afternoon and quit at 11 o'clock.

Louisa Mazzillo, 33, wife of the dead man, drove to meet her husband as usual. He refused to ride home with her, according to her story, which is corroborated by Daniel, the son. It appears the couple had recently had some words. Mrs. Mazzillo says that she then turned around and drove back along Bristol Pike to Mill street and returned via Otter street, in an effort to see if she could not induce her husband to ride in the car with her and their two children. As she turned the machine around just south of the intersection of Otter street and Route 13, her attention was attracted to a car standing along Otter street and a group of people nearby. She told her son, Daniel, to go see what was the matter. He saw his father lying dead along the side of the road where the body had been found by Rymer.

RESIDENTIAL BUILDING

How the construction industry responds to the federal housing program is a question the answer to which will bear an important relation to general recovery.

The act was intended to aid in the financing of home construction by reducing the interest rates on loans. Interest rates, however, are not the only obstacles holding back construction work. The cost of materials and labor are important considerations.

Passage of the home building act was followed by an announcement from the construction industry that reductions ranging from 10 to 15 per cent. in the prices of materials were contemplated in an effort to give a push to the program. Representatives of the building trades, however, have come forward with no statement of their attitude.

There is no doubt that the nation is in need of a great number of new homes. Only about $300,000,000 a year is being placed in new homes now as against something like a billion dollars annually in the years before the depression. This can but mean that there is a serious shortage of homes.

An extensive residential building program would prove an important boost to recovery on many fronts. If the federal act succeeds in supplying the necessary stimulation, it will have accomplished important results. To provide easier financing, though, is unlikely alone to do this.

BUMBLEBEE TIME

Perhaps the most misunderstood and least appreciated member of the insect family who really deserves no little credit is the bumblebee. Because he seems to be a man of leisure, who spends his summer gorging himself instead of storing up honey for the coming winter, he has been called a parasite and a vagrant.

In Australia and New Zealand he is held in as great respect as he commands from the barefoot boy, who, though he admires the throaty hum and beautiful gold and black fur coat, treads warily in the clover lest he step on one of Mr. Bumblebee's sharp needles. These two countries learned his true worth when they attempted to transplant clover there. They discovered that without the bumblebee's aid in pollination their clover would not grow, so the bumblebee, who was not a native of those parts, was imported.

For those who do not know that he works while he eats and humbles, the bumblebee is the very embodiment of man's midsummer longings. He is as typical of mid-summer as are brown-eyed Susans.

It is not the bumblebee's fault that he is improvident, living from hand to mouth. He knows that with the end of the flowering season he will die, so lives accordingly. Does the condemned man save part of his last meal for the next day?

Senator Borah is the best orator in the senate, according to a poll of newspaper reporters who cover congress; Senator Glass is the ablest Democrat; Senator Reed the most able Republican and Senator Wagner the most popular and most industrious. Huey Long was left unclassified, something that his colleagues, however, have not been negligent in doing.

HOLLYWOOD. . .—For sense of humor, I'll take the orchestra on the S. S. Lurline, plying the Honolulu run. Peter Fortune Ryan (owner of countless millions) and his bride just honeymooned it over on the vessel.
When the pair made their first appearance, the orchestra struck up: "I Can't Give You Anything But Love."

Hottest rumor in Hollywood is that John (Jake the Barber) Factor returns here soon to make that long-discussed motion picture on his experiences with the kidnapers. Boulevard gossips insist the story is all ready to shoot and that space has been rented in a certain studio. Some added details are that Factor plans to have his wife and son re-act the roles they played in the sensational snatch case and the resultant conviction of the racketeers. Dope is that the picture will pound the moral that the victims should talk and give the federal government every aid in identifying their captors.

John Factor

Among the livelier items told of the Hollywood delegation that went to the Shriners' convention in Minneapolis is that Jackie Coogan got off at every station to send a wire back to Toby Wing. The pair are said to have worked out a code for their telegrams just to baffle such curious persons as me.

The young West Point lieutenant, whom all the sheets said would marry the M.G.M. starlet, Shirley Ross, isn't to have any such luck. Seems as Shirley decided to come back from West Point via her old home town, Omaha, Neb. While there, she met a childhood sweetheart and, from all reports, the army suffered a crushing defeat. Shirley has returned her officer's pin and the Nebraska lad is arriving here to press his suit.

And to make the columnist's day a little harder, Shirley won't tell his name.
Where are the Hollywood art directors carrying us? Van Nest Polglase, of R-K-O, tops his competitors by inventing a fur-lined bedroom for "Gay Divorcee." "Isn't as bad as it sounds, only the moultings, but even so, this moth's delight is not likely to sweep the country."

Little Ida Lupino has her physician's permission to go back to work at Paramount within two weeks. Although they are lifting the quarantine, Lupino fans throughout the world are still wiring offers to give blood to aid in curing her from infantile paralysis. One Jack Gross, 4702 New Utrecht avenue, Brooklyn, even offered to pay his own way to Hollywood and supply a blood transfusion.

Gus Kahn, lyric writer, remembers more metered words than a rhyming dictionary, but he can NOT remember numbers. He moved to Beverly Hills the other day and waited two weeks for a telephone so he could be assigned an easily remembered number. He never has been definitely sure of his address, no matter how long, he has lived in a place.

Columbia's troupe making "Captain Hatter's Sea" are cruising desperately over the ocean in search of sunlight, but studio officials are not the only ones to get the jitters. Wynne Gibson writes:

"De something, I'm miserable. Seven days aboard this heap (the specially chartered S. S. Ruth Alexander) and I've done five jumps 12 feet each into a net off the side of this ship. And that is all. Lost 80 bucks playing black-jack with the hired hands and won 52 cents at bridge and have acquired a bulge in the vicinity of my waistline—Gibson hates the sea."

Very funny when Walter Winchell sat chatting with Mrs. Fred Astaire on an R-K-O set, and all the time the whole company was back at the monitor's booth listening to their conversation caught up by a "live" mike hanging right overhead. In case you've wondered, Ivan Lebedeff controls that monacle so perfectly because it is notched all around the rim to give a better grip. Slim Martin, the orchestra leader, is plotting matrimony with a local chorine, but he may run into alimony trouble with his former wife, Dixie Martin, who, so far, has been very swell about it all. J. Wolfson, M.G.M. scenarist, has a new novel, "Is My Flesh of Brass?" on the book shelves. It's very warlike stuff. Patsy Kelly, the hard luck comedienne, who was almost killed last year in that accident with Jean Malin, is saying good-by to her Hal Roach pals for a brief vacation in New York. . . .

Best protected woman at the Hollywood fights recently was Adrienne Cabot, Henry Wilcoxon, Alex Tiers and Elliot Gibbons. . . . Robin Coons, Hollywood reporter for a press association, is the papa of a son just born at the Cedars of Lebanon hospital. . . . And Sir Guy Standing, of all people, is vacationing in an automobile trailer on the Paramount ranch.

DID YOU KNOW—

That Clarke Gable has invented a special dog biscuit for his chow pups? He got the idea from reading an old English book.

"DEATH SONG"

by JOAN CLAYTON AND MALCOLM LOGAN

SYNOPSIS

Seifert Vail, the most unpopular patient at exclusive Sherwood Forest Sanatorium, is murdered. Two wounds are found on the body: one apparently from a sharp weapon and the other, from a dull, rusty instrument. Dr. John Calvert and Mark Hillyer, playwright and patient, agree the wounds could have been caused by a pair of scissors. Felipa, the maid, discovered the body when she went into Vail's room to turn off the phonograph. Vail, a former opera singer, broken-hearted over the death of his wife, had a habit of repeatedly playing the record "Waiting For You," sung by himself. Dr. Calvert claims Vail had been dead an hour before the phonograph started playing. Vail shared a cottage with Willis Clendening, Milton Ruxton and James Ruxton. Ruxton's nephew, Loren, and Dr. Calvert are rivals for the affections of Sue Faraday, Mark's nurse. Ruxton had changed rooms with Vail the day before the crime because the former's room had a private entrance and Vail expected a visitor he wanted to receive secretly. A letter the victim received from New York is missing. Sheriff Finn asks Felipa how she knew Vail had been murdered when he had been covered and the wounds were not visible. She appears to be hiding something and, next morning, disappears. Clendening claims he saw a piece of paper under the clock on Felipa's table, but no trace can be found of it. Loren Ruxton claims he was out with Sue at the time of the tragedy and took a snapshot of Lakeside Cottage a little after two o'clock, yet Sue had not left the hospital until five minutes to three. Mark's theory regarding the note in Felipa's room is that Dr. Caldwell, having gone there alone, may have found the note but denied seeing it.

CHAPTER XV

The telephone on his bedside table rang.
"Hello," Mark said. "Yes, he's here. Sure send him right in."
He turned to me with a satisfied smile. "Guess you're about to honor us with a visit! Dave Finn, the bungling bloodhound of the law, the slipshod sheriff in person."

"Does he want to see me?"
Mark nodded. "Wants to sweat you about the mysterious doings this morning, I suppose." He chuckled. "Am I all a-quiver with anticipation?"

Sue came in at that moment, and she looked very distressed. She did not even try to smile at us. She avoided looking at Mark as she went by toward the porch.

"Sweetheart," Mark said. She stopped and turned, but still she would not look at him. "Don't do it," he said sharply.

She drew in her breath sharply and color spread slowly in her throat and cheeks.

"Listen," Mark said. "I've only got a minute before the sheriff comes. If Loren asked you to back him up, don't do it. Don't get yourself in trouble—and when you see Loren, tell him not to be a fool and try to lie to Finn. Get it?"

She nodded, still staring at him, surprised and a little frightened by his clairvoyance.

"There's nothing to worry about," Mark said, smiling reassuringly. "Loren lost his head, that's all. I'm not going to tell on him, but don't let him know I'm in on it."

"I won't," she said, and she smiled on him, gratefully, dazzlingly. "I've already told him to tell the sheriff the truth, but please tell me how you knew he was—telling a lie."

"Mañana," said Mark. "The old Hidalgo's about to receive a visitor now."

The sheriff's heavy footsteps had already announced him. He entered at Mark's command.
"Well, Mr. Finn," Mark said, smiling and holding out his hand. "I'm awfully glad to meet you. I'm Mark Hillyer. This is Miss Faraday, my nurse. You know Mr. Fowler, of course. Please sit down."

"Why, thanks, Mr. Hillyer. I'm glad to know you," Finn said. He sat down heavily in one of Mark's chairs, pulled his handkerchief from his pocket and began to mop his forehead.

"Another scorcher," he said. "It ain't often we get three hot days like this hand running."

He put his handkerchief in his pocket and began to pull his mustache.

"It's rotten weather for work like yours," Mark said sympathetically. "It sure is, and what a case, Mr. Hillyer! You know, I wanted to hold that girl as a material witness last night, but—"

Mark nodded. "I know. You didn't

"Yes, but I think you'll find her money is still there. I believe she ran away on the spur of the moment, with probably no more money than she needed to get to New York. If she did, and she tries to get her money out of the bank, you can find her. I don't see how she can get far without her savings."

"That's right, Mr. Hillyer. You got a good mind on you, if you don't mind my sayin' so."

"I love it," Mark answered, grinning. "And now let me get another idea off my mind. When Felipa ran away, she very probably went along that path through the woods, beside the lake. That leads to the county road to Mount Hollins, and it's no much further from there than it is

"Sweetheart," Mark said. Sue stopped and turned. "Don't do it," he said sharply.

want to act too hastily. No one can blame you."

Finn sighed. "It's just a bad break, Mr. Hillyer."

"Did you want to see me, Mr. Finn?" I asked.

"Why, yes," he said. "I understand you was at the cottage this morning. I'd like you to tell me just what happened."

I repeated my story, and while I was talking, Sue rose quietly and went out on the porch. When I had finished, the sheriff nodded and said, "That checks, all right." He shook his head and sighed deeply.

"May I make a suggestion, Mr. Finn?" Mark required.

The sheriff looked up hopefully. Obviously, he would welcome any advice that might lead him out of his dilemma.

"Sure," he said.

"I understand you've established the fact that Felipa didn't take the train from the village." The sheriff nodded. "You know that she's a Mexican, and that she was saving money to return to Mexico?"

"Yes, I know that."

"Have you inquired whether she kept her savings on deposit with the business office?"

"She didn't have a cent there but a week's wages due her."

"Then she must have had her money in the bank in the village," Mark said. "What do you see if she closed her account there recently?"

"Say, that's a good idea!" Finn exclaimed. He sat thinking for a minute and then said, "If she did, it looks suspicious, don't it? Looks like she planned to make a quick getaway."

to Cold Valley. She may have caught the train there. Why don't you look along that path?"
"Say, I think I'll make you a deputy!" Finn said. "Lord knows you're more of a help than the two fools I brought with me."

Mark did not answer. He had suddenly become very grave. He sat frowning at the foot of his bed.

Finn stood up, but as he was about to leave, Mark held up his hand.

"Have you found anything to indicate that Felipa might have left that note Clendening said he saw in her room?" he asked.

"Well," Finn said, "somebody here in the sanatorium sent her a note last night."

Mark sat up. "Really? Have you been able to trace it?"

"No, darn it! There's a box in the lobby for letters from one part of the sanatorium to another. Somebody dropped it in there last night, and a bellboy took it down to the cottage."

"Did he recognize the writing on it?"

"It wasn't writing, her name was printed out in pencil. I figure that was what Clendening saw."

"Lord," said Mark. "That's bad!"

The sheriff caught the contagion of fear from Mark's voice. He demanded sharply, "What do you mean, it's bad?" and he sounded alarmed. I braced myself mentally for a shock. It seemed certain that Mark was thinking of Dr. Calvert's connection with that vanished note, and was going to speak of it.

Golf, too, has its Business Moments

"HEAD DOWN, eye on the ball." When this admonition to yourself brings the reward of a zinging drive up the fairway, a beautiful mashie shot to the green or a twenty-foot putt right into the cup. . . it's then that the real thrill of the game begins to seep into your veins; the worries of state give way to the pleasant concern of lowering your score; while the fresh air and the exercise pay dividends in health and mental fitness for the battles of life.

"Head down, eye on the ball." But keep your eye also on that other phase so productive of added pleasure—the possession of up-to-date equipment.

August is golf's mid-season. Sales of golfers' requisites are on or imminent. That set of matched irons, that swanky new-fangled bag, those comfortable spiked moccasin-tops, or those look-the-part-of-a-golfer togs—all are beckoning to you from the stores in this city.

Keep your "head down"—and keep the cost of your golf down too. Keep your "eye on the ball"—and on the golfing-supplies advertisements in this newspaper. Shrewd buying—the business phase of your golf—is at hand. Cash in.

P. S.—There are good bargains, too, in equipment for tennis, swimming, camping, fishing, touring.

ORGANDIE GOWN, VERY BOUFFANT, IS CHOSEN BY MADAME WALSKA

By Nadia De Beaud

(L. N. S. Fashion Correspondent) PARIS—(INS)—A charming party recently was given by Madame Ganna Walska at her country house, a short way out of Paris. Trumpeters in red coats announced the arrival of each guest. There were about 150 present, and luncheon was served Russian style, having been prepared by a former chef of the Czar.

Madame Walska wore a pale gray organdie dress, very bouffant in line. A sapphire necklace with a pendant attracted many admiring glances, for one stone was a two inch sapphire and the other a similarly large carved emerald. Bracelets in sapphires and emeralds adorned her arms, and on each hand she had one large ring of square sapphires. Her large brimmed hat was trimmed with a band of sapphire colored ribbon.

SEVENTH INNING SPURT WINS FOR EDGELY

BRISTOL TWILIGHT LEAGUE
Schedule for tonight
INDEPENDENTS vs. A. O. H.
(Leedom's Field)

A two-run rally in the seventh inning gave the Edgely Braves first place in the second half of the Bristol Twilight League last night on the Edgely diamond as the Jefferson A. C. took it on the nose by the close score of 3-2.

It was the big stick of "Johnny" Dougherty that gave the Braves the triumph. "Doc" wielded a menacing bat all night. He reached base on every occasion he stepped to the plate and delivered three of the Edgely team's five hits. His last hit sent Dick scurrying across the plate with the winning tally.

To begin that fatal frame which cost the Jefferson team first place, Mondo waited out Breslin for four balls to receive first base. Gould batted for Wright and fanned ingloriously. Dick tapped to Tomlinson but Tullio dropped the throw at first, Mondo reaching third. Wright brought Mondo home by the "squeeze play." Dougherty whammed a hit to left and Dick crossed.

Before his fatal error in the seventh, Tullio had been a hero in the eyes of the Mules' fans for in the sixth he had put his team ahead with his second tremendous drive of the season. He connected with a Wright pitch to his liking and sent the pill on a straight line to deep left. It was an easy home run.

Both "Mel" Wright and "Camel" Breslin were effective in their hurling. Wright fanned nine and Breslin six. The usual wild Breslin issued but two passes last night and one turned out to be his downfall.

Breslin permitted a run in the 4th when Ashby whaled a triple to center and scored on a lift to the same fielder. The Mules scored their first tally in the fourth when J. Tullio drew a walk and scored on DiTanna's scorching double to left.

According to the records it was the fourteenth straight victory for the Edgely nine although one game which was forfeited is in the hands of the league president.

Germany is Nazi disunity; national disillusionment and national fear for the future. Unidentified and outside is that dangerous figure, revenge.

Between Hitler and his hearers today stand ghosts of dead men; how many there are the German public has not yet been told. They are dead friends too, all traitors, he declares, but all are men who left friends behind them.

The Field Marshal of the second army against Hitler is general world opinion. Under this field marshal marches Germany's lost credit; lost markets and lost friends.

And, more important than either of these two armies is the third. Its commander-in-chief is nature; its regiments are drought, crop failure, food and goods shortage, while off in the distance can be distinguished shadows of these enemies: famine and national bankruptcy.

Miss Marie Gallagher, Philadelphia, spent two days with Mr. and Mrs. Neal Gallagher, Mansion street.

HIBERNIANS DEFEAT HULMEVILLE, 11 TO 2

The Hibernians looked more like themselves last night. The team which has been suffering from the doldrums since the second half began, suddenly snapped out of it and defeated the first-half champions, the Hulmeville A. A., by the one-sided score of 11-2.

Heavy hitting plus effective pitching in the pinches by "Doc" Diehm gave the Big Green their victory. The victim of the assault of the Hibs' batsmen was no other than the ace of the Hulmeville staff, Howie Black. Black received a severe shelling and was pounded for 13 hits.

In every inning, the Bristol batsmen scored at least one tally, and in the last frame it became just a matter of form and four runs crossed the platter before the third out had been made. Everything that Black threw last night was just meat for the Hibernians who were determined not to be eliminated from the second-half race. Included in the 13 hits were four timely doubles.

Every member of the winning squad with the exception of "Sammy" Dietrich shared in the hitting orgy. Sammy could not connect solidly although he reached base on an error in the first and scored. Even Devlin and Diehm who very seldom hit, managed to garner a safety. It was Diehm's first hit of the campaign, a rousing double to left in the second inning.

"Doc" Diehm was also hit hard by the Hulmeville batters. Nine times a Diehm pitch was whammed safely. But even so, the first-half champs found the lanky Doctor invincible in the pinches and had but one earned run and that was when Black singled in the fourth and scored on "Bill" Mende's double to left. Diehm was aided by two fast double plays and was given wonderful support throughout.

"Dave" Ennis found a "cousin" in Howard Black. Four times Dave stepped to the plate and three times he sent crashing blows to the outfield for bingles. On his other appearance he was passed. "Gige" Dougherty came through with two out of three, while "Warrie" Bruce, not to be outdone by Ennis, made three out of three.

The defeat stopped the Hulmeville team's winning streak of three consecutive contests.

drove it to deep left field for a round-tripper. It was just one of Sid's three hits of the night. The A. A. made eight hits off the delivery of "Hokey" Leighton.

Bristol scored its first tally in the first when with Barrett already out, Stromp singled and scored on hits by Purcell and Choma. In the second, a bingle by Forrest and an error by Dougherty gave the Mulhollanders another marker.

Bristol is now leading the circuit with four victories and one defeat. Cornwells stands in second place with three and two, while the Hibs follow with two and two.

Initial herd, also was tested in five year old form and gave 1647 pounds of 4.16% milk, 539 pounds of butterfat. Her sire was Sycamore Governor Boggio, a son of the long-distance champion producer Boggle of Eastside that has a life-time record of 156,633 pounds of milk, 5347 pounds of butterfat. While her dam was Sycamore Ideal Redbird that has made 92,069 pounds of milk, 3909 pounds of butterfat in eight years.

Penshurst Chloe, a first calf heifer, made the good record of 11,246 pounds of 4.25% milk, 478 pounds of butterfat. Sycamore White Prince, senior herd sire at the National Farm School, has sired some very attractive heifers. Among the first to freshen, Farm School Princess Minerva, milked over 40 pounds, and in seven months of her first lactation has produced 899 pounds of 4.21% milk, 341 pounds of butterfat.

Sycamore White Prince was sired by the well proven Penshurst Advance whose daughters and sons have been consistent winners at leading exhibitions. Ten of his daughters have completed 13 Herd Test records at immature ages that average 11186 pounds of milk, 462 pounds of butterfat, equal to 562 pounds of butterfat on a mature basis, with an average butterfat test of 4.13%. "White Prince" was out of Sycamore Ideal Princess that has four consecutive records averaging 9511 pounds of milk, 369 pounds of butterfat. She was by Shewalton Mains Ideal and consequently a paternal sister to Sycamore Ideal Redbird. Sycamore Ideal Ruth, Sycamore Ideal Antoinette, Boggle of Eastside, Sycamore Ideal Maggie and Sycamore Ideal Hattie, all noted long distance producers.

The National Farm School herd has been founded with animals that are from families that have consistently proven their ability as heavy producers under practical conditions.

son of the late Jefferson and Honora Thompson.

A most active part was taken in many organizations by Mr. Thompson. He was secretary and treasurer of America Hose, Hook & Ladder Company, No. 2; treasurer of Fidelity Council, 21, F. P. A., and also of Hermione Lodge, K. of P. Other organizations with which he was affiliated are: Bristol Lodge, 58, Daughters of America; Washington Camp, 789, P. O. S. of A.; Camp 89, P. O. of A.; Shepherds Delight Lodge, No. 1, Shepherds of Bethlehem; Young Men's Association; Trenton Forest, No. 4, Tall Cedars of Lebanon; Packinah Tribe of Red Men at South Langhorne. He also held membership in St. James' P. E. Church.

Born in Tullytown, Mr. Thompson came to Bristol about 40 years ago, and had made his home here since that time. The family residence is at 212 Radcliffe street.

The funeral service will take place at St. James' Church on Monday, at 2.30 p. m. Burial in Tullytown Cemetery will be directed by the H. S. Rue Estate, and friends may call Sunday evening, or Monday before 2 p. m.

past the spot and took the body to the Harriman Hospital.

Mrs. Mazzillo and the two children she had with her, Daniel and a baby, 3, were detained at police headquarters by Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo and State Trooper Fisher, Morrisville barracks, as the affair had occurred outside of Bristol Borough.

Chief Jones and Deputy Coroner Young were called.

After the cause of death had been learned a careful survey of the spot where the body was found was made. Mrs. Mazzillo, son Daniel and a daughter, Jennie, 18, by a former husband, were closely questioned. The daughter was at home in bed at the time of the affair.

The authorities finally decided that Mazzillo had either been struck by an automobile or else had fallen in an effort to avoid being struck.

The authorities state that fresh tire marks leading directly to the spot where the body was found do not correspond with either the tires on the Mazzillo car or that of Rymer's.

Mrs. Mazzillo and her children were released.

About five years ago Giuseppe DeLissio met death at the Mazzillo home when he fell down the cellar stairs. At that time Mrs. Mazzillo was tried and acquitted.

GET THE SURPRISING FACTS ON NEW "JEWELLED MOVEMENT" CAR
80 miles an hour . . . Acceleration from 5 to 50 miles an hour in 16½ seconds in high gear . . . Unusual gasoline economy . . . A really bigger, roomier body—These are things which first impress you in the new Nash-built LaFayette—the things, probably, which you have been hoping to find in a low-priced car.
But the most important asset of the "jewelled movement" LaFayette goes far beyond these points. In it is a series of costly, proven construction features never before put into a car in this price class. These features give the LaFayette the smooth, long-life silence and riding comfort of an expensive automobile.
If you want the most for your money, get the surprising facts on the "jewelled movement" LaFayette first-hand from your nearest Nash-LaFayette dealer—today. The Nash Motors Company, Kenosha, Wisconsin.
